Leather Research Industry Get-together

28-30 January 2015

CSIR-CLRI

CSIR - CLRI – An International Institution

CSIR-Central Leather Research Institute (CSIR-CLRI) was founded with its maiden mandate to provide education and training with technological support to leather and allied sectors. HRD @CLRI in leather and allied fields has empowered the leather sector from a tradition bound industry to a global performer. Industry-academy-research interaction has emerged signifying the culmination of this international symbiotic relationship. The institution has gained excellence in enhancing and dissemination of technological competence and remained as an advanced education and training hub in leather technology. CSIR-CLRI had been one of the apex bodies in directing the growth of Indian Leather sector. Today CSIR-CLRI plays vital role in leveraging the growth of Leather sector in several countries especially in African continent through institutional and technological capacity building programmes.

LERIG – The Profile

Organized every year during the last week of January, Leather Research Industry Get-Together (LERIG) marks the beginning of the Leather week celebrations. LERIG is organized by CSIR-CLRI in association with the stakeholders of the leather sector including Council for Leather Exports, Leather and Leather Products Trade Bodies and Associations with active support from CSIR Network Partners, Institutions and Universities. This annual event aims to provide a platform to deliberate the ideas and concerns of common interest and to evolve a comprehensive strategy for enabling an internationally competitive Leather Sector. The LERIG meet over the years has gained global participation and appreciation.

LERIG 2015 – “HRD Opportunities and Paradigms for Empowerment (HOPE) of leather sector”

Leather and Leather Products industry is human resource intensive and is an important sector contributing towards the inclusive growth of economies. HRD has emerged as the most significant parameter governing the sustained growth of the leather sector. Developing human resources has now transcended national boundaries and gained global attention. Hence, LERIG 2015 will focus on the theme to empower Indian Leather Industry through HRD. LERIG 2015 will also discuss on the immediate and long term concerns and priorities for the sustainable growth of the leather and allied sectors. HOPE will provide opportunities for the stakeholders to discuss strategies towards meeting the challenges faced by the leather sector.

LERIG 2015 proposes to deliberate on

- Transforming Institutional Competence in building Global Education Hub
- Greener Technology Trends in Leather Manufacture
- Design Innovations and Fashion Forecast – “Make in India” Brand Go Global
- Opportunities and Challenges for Enhanced Productivity – Seek Skills
- HRD in Empowerment of Leather Sector – Role of Skilled Manpower
- New Age Entrepreneurial Models for Empowering Leather Sector
